

No option of declaring goods with customs relief.

It is almost mandatory to notify V413 about the delivery because when devices are handed over which are under customs control at DESY, the “withdrawal from customs supervision” arising from this must be reported without delay to the responsible principal customs office.

If for this reason or for any other reason a customs liability results, the statement of dutiable goods is generally sent to DESY regardless of any question of fault.

Should customs determine in the course of its inspections that there have been violations against this notification requirement, it can be expected that stiff fines will be imposed against those responsible.

Because the devices are in free circulation in the EU after date on the statement of dutiable goods the transportation route can be freely selected.
